

Lucius Penick's Body Not Return Here for Burial

LT. LUCIUS PENICK

The body of Lt. Lucius G. Penick will not be brought back to Canyon for reburial due to the fact that the Air Corps is not certain as to the identity of the young airman who was killed in Australia on July 16, 1942.

Lt. Col. E. M. Brown was here Friday to confer with the parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Penick. According to the statement of Col. Brown the Army is not shipping bodies of men killed overseas to their home communities unless there is no question of the identity of the bodies.

A group of bodies from Australia has not been completely identified. Col. Brown stated there would be a mass burial of the deceased in the Jefferson Barrack National Cemetery.

Lt. Penick was the first man killed from Randall county. The local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars was named in honor of his memory.

The young officer had been in action against the Japs several times from the base in Australia. He was a passenger in a plane which crashed in flight, and his death was not due to action in battle, according to the War Department.

Lt. Penick received his degree from West Texas State in 1940. He trained at Bakersville Field, Calif., and received his wings at Moffett Field. He was an instructor at Salt Lake City before he was transferred to California. He was sent to Hawaii for his first overseas duties.

A son was born to Lt. Penick and his young wife two days before the fatal accident.

Other survivors are: the parents, who are pioneers of Randall county; three brothers, L. B. Penick, E. C. Penick, Jr., and Leon Penick; and two sisters, Mrs. Loraine Roberts and Mrs. C. M. Ford.

TWENTY PAGES—SECTION ONE

60th Anniversary Founding of This County in July

Randall county will be 60 years old in July!

When the county reached its 50th Anniversary in 1939, a monster celebration was staged in Canyon, with 15,000 visitors present.

The Palo Duro State Park is bidding for celebrations and large crowds during the summer, and it is proposed that Randall county observe its birthday by holding a celebration in the Park at that time.

No definite move has been started, but the suggestion is made that 1949 should not be passed without some fitting observation of this anniversary.

The question is open for discussion. Write a letter to The News giving your opinion.

Canyon, Umbarger School Trustees Are Seeking Agreement on Proposal

Trustees of the Canyon Independent School District and of the Umbarger Common School District met Thursday night with members of the County School Board for a discussion of the petition filed with the County School Board to transfer 28 sections of land from the Independent District to Umbarger.

After a thorough discussion, the County Board requested that the two school boards get together on an agreement which would be satisfactory to both schools.

In a meeting between representatives of the two boards, agreement was reached on a scholastic basis, rather than the transfer of land. This agreement was ratified in a meeting of the Canyon Independent School District trustees. The proposal was transmitted to the Umbarger trustees. No action was taken by this board due to the absence of one trustee from the county.

David M. Warren of Panhandle, president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, has issued a letter to friends of the Society giving the terms of an offer made by O. J. Finch, prominent ranchman of Dalhart.

It will take about $60,000 to complete construction on the Museum building. Mr. Finch will be one of six persons to give $10,000 each for this construction. According to his offer, these gifts must be made by individuals, and not by counties or groups.

A bill is pending in the legislature to appropriate money to buy needed cases, fixtures and furniture. The need of completing construction of the second unit of the Museum would be paramount to the expenditure of this appropriation.

Any citizen of Randall county who will be one of the six to accept the challenge of Mr. Finch should contact Dr. L. F. Sheffy, secretary of the Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves Donnell visited with his father in Plainview Saturday. Dr. Donnell has been in poor health for several months, and retired as a practicing physician when he moved to Plainview.

Dr. C. E. Donnell Writes History Of His Family

DR. C. E. DONNELL

Dr. C. E. Donnell of Plainview, formerly of Canyon, has his first book in the hands of the publishers. This is a genealogy of the Donnell, Langford and other pioneer families of this area.

The history opens when the Donnell, Doak, Halbert and Williams families migrated from Wilson county, Tennessee, to Hickory county, Missouri. The book also traces the Langford, Mitchener and Dickenson families from Sumner county, Tennessee to Benton, Missouri during the period of 1837 and 1838.

The two groups settled in adjoining Missouri counties, and there were many intermarriages between the groups.

It is planned for the book to be completed for the market by the end of this month.

Mr. Donnell has almost finished writing a second book on the early history of Briscoe County and the pioneers of that county.

Indian Camps and trails preceded the cattlemen. Briscoe county was almost completely within the bounds of the ranch established by Colonel Charles Goodnight, who had his headquarters in the Palo Duro canyon.

Pioneers who settled before 1900 are traced in this second book.

Dr. Donnell has a most remarkable memory of face, places and dates. In addition to being a pioneer practicing physician in this area, he was interested in farming and development of the cattle business. He started writing this record several years ago, and since moving to Plainview has devoted his entire time to this history.

Four From Canyon Saved Palo Duro From Big Damage

Frank Miller is praising highly the thoughtfulness and interest of four young men from Canyon. On Easter Sunday, Lindsey Taylor, Bob Black, Charles Taylor and John Gill discovered fire in the Palo Duro Canyon. Two of the young men stayed with the fire to watch it and keep it under control to the best of their ability while the other two rushed to the top of the Canyon for help.

Mr. Miller with his men returned with the boys and all together they were able to put the fire out without much damage being done.

According to Mr. Miller had the four not taken the precautions they did there would have been serious damage to Palo Duro from the fire.

To express in a small way his appreciation, Mr. Miller is giving each of these four a year's pass to the park.

Second, Each business firm is requested to give merchandise prizes which will be awarded during the summer to those who find the lucky numbers in the Palo Duro. These prizes may be in any value. The law provides that such publication shall be made. The mayor of Canadian retorts that the city cannot afford to publish the statement.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Write to Your Congressman
And Give Intelligent Ideas

The Newsman went to Pampa Thursday night to hear a report from the United States Chamber of Commerce on activities in Washington. We were impressed with a number of facts expressed during the meeting, and facts which became evident by the setting of the meeting.

In the first place, we were sorely disappointed in the interest in the meeting. Only a few more than 50 persons from this vast Panhandle region took the time to hear a report from Washington as to what Congress was doing with our money. This in itself is a clear example of what takes place daily in Washington when the people fail in their duty of informing Congress of their needs.

It was pointed out by the speaker that the silly practice of getting up long petitions is as silly as it looks. Everyone will sign a petition, without reading it, or knowing what it contains. It is different about personal letters. Lawmakers who receive a letter from private citizen John Jones and Bill Smith will read that letter carefully, no matter how badly constructed the sentences may be, or how badly the words are spelled. Your legislator, whether he is in Austin or Washington, knows when he receives such a letter that it comes from the heart of the writer. He knows that the letter carries a message.

It is no wonder that small pressure groups are able to put over their ideas with Congress when so few voters take the time to write to their Congressmen. If a poll could be taken of every voter in this Congressional district, we often wonder just how few letters Gene Worley is receiving from the people back home. But don't just write to be writing. Have something to say; some concrete idea before you write; and then tell Mr. Worley what you think.

Those of us who have written to Senator Tom Connally know that he seldom answers a letter, except by telegram. Pappy O'Daniel was about as poor a correspondent. We have not tried out Senator Lyndon Johnson, because he seems to be going down the line about like we would if we were casting his vote.

The theme of the meeting was to reduce federal spending. How are we going to do it?

It won't be done so long as everyone rushes up to Washington, trying to get the government to dump the treasury into his community.

A few years ago a county judge in Texas got a great deal of publicity by asking the government to eliminate all federal spending in his county. Of course he did not mean that the postoffice would be closed; that the county agent and home demonstration agent be fired; that payments cease to the farmers; that highway construction be stopped; that all of these common federal expenditures which Americans have demanded for years be eliminated. No, indeed, he meant nothing of the kind. He meant that the government should stop spending money in the other fellow's county, not his own! That is the way most of us look at federal spending.

Work of the Hoover Commission was highly praised. So far 18 reports have been issued. It was predicted that within 10 years most of the fundamental reforms advocated by the Hoover Commission would be adopted by Congress. Governmental reforms come slowly. If and when these reforms are adopted, several billion dollars will be saved annually. There is no question about this.

Emphasis during the meeting was that the people MUST be active and let their representatives in Congress know how they feel about pending legislation. There is no other way for them to get the opinion of the people.

Too Many Factors Fighting
For Control of Business

Business men are taking a serious look at their position in this tumultuous world. It is not a pretty picture, if you wish to be damnably frank about it. Never has there been such a drive by so many people to discredit business.

The President wants more taxes, bleeding business; unions are driving to run business and to make the people think that business is robbing them; buyers think that prices should tumble overnight; producers think that business should support past high prices of raw materials.

Just where in the heck is all this leading?

The Newsman has finally unloaded a job of too many years. Lester Campbell, publisher of the McLean News came over Saturday and hauled away the records of the Panhandle Press Association. From now on Lester will carry the ball for the Panhandle Press Association. And good luck, old boy.

If you have not been out in the country during the past two weeks, take a drive this weekend. You will be amazed at the beautiful wheat that has every appearance of making a huge yield this year. Another bumper crop is one of the things that the Panhandle needs most.

Friends of the Gilmer-Aiken bill took advantage of a walk-out in the House Friday. With a bare quorum present, the House passed the bill outlawing the job of State Superintendent. Those who had taken a walk feel rather cheap about the situation.

There is no way to tell whether Russia wants war or not; you won't know until you see what the Soviet does in the next few years.

There are people in the world who believe that a cash contribution is all that they are required to do for their communities.

Americanism: Business man, complaining of inefficiency of government but, at the same time, using pull to secure a competitive advantage.

Thousands of persons die in the nation every year through accidents but every living individual is certain that he, or she, won't be among them in 1949.

The Communists are for peace in the United States if it requires sabotage and civil warfare to get it.

War scares flare up almost overnight but there is no reason to expect hostilities to commence tomorrow.

TVA Is Going Into Competition
With Local Power Plants

We have read interesting articles in recent years as to how federal agencies have grown by leaps and bounds without the slightest provocation or particular need.

In years past we have not been particularly concerned about TVA, looking upon it as a water conservation and control measure. It started that way. In its creation the law provided that TVA would use the surplus and waste water to generate power which would be sold to any or all consumers.

A new wrinkle has developed within the past month. Congress has passed a huge appropriation for the construction of a STEAM POWER PLANT!

Having secured this appropriation the administration is now demanding appropriation for TWO MORE STEAM power plants.

This means that the government is going into direct competition with the power plants of this nation—those which are privately owned; paying taxes; giving good service; and manned and owned by private individuals who are your friends and neighbors.

This carries out the announced scheme of the Roosevelt administration to break up huge companies and replace them with governmentally owned and operated plants of all and sundry types.

Do you like it? No, neither do we.

Free enterprise, the thing which has built America, and which has made America strong and great, is on its way out unless it is checked by the people.

Federal Aid For Schools Is Coming by Lack of Local Taxes

Federal aid to schools and colleges is on its way due to the entire neglect of local citizens. This statement was made last week by a man fresh out of Washington.

Put it squarely on the line this way: The taxpayers of Canyon and Randall county have been so stingy with their schools that they have allowed hundreds of qualified teachers to quit the school room and go into other fields in order that said tax payers might save a few dollars. As a result children are getting inferior education from inferior teachers.

That's the cruel way to put it. This may not have happened locally, but that is the way Washington finds the attitude of tax payers throughout the nation. They have starved the teachers into quitting their jobs.

The result: Federal aid to schools is on its way!

When the federal government steps in, local control goes out. Sure the federal government may say that it is going to turn the supervision over to local agencies, but not for long. The federal government exerts its power over every agency into which it puts money. You may be sure and certain of this.

Big Gamblers Get Away While
Nigger Crap Shooters Fined

We are of the opinion that Judge Henry S. Bishop was right in demanding action by the District Attorney and the grand jury of Potter county to put a stop to gambling. According to common reports, gambling, in big money, continues in Amarillo. Peace officers raid little joints, and bring in the little crap shooters, but the big boys are unmolested.

Mr. Tack of the Amarillo Globe-News recently went to Reno to view open gambling. He came back with one observation: Very, very few newspaper men ever gamble; not because they are so morally pure, but because they know that they have such a small chance to win.

Maybe Tack should have visited some of the joints of Amarillo to get first hand information as to the fate of the suckers.

Make your plans now to visit the Palo Duro State Park several times during the summer months. Take time to stop and study those beautiful colors in the canyon. Most people visit the Palo Duro for the joy ride down the floor of the canyon. It takes a brave soul just to joy ride with no better roads than now afforded, but better roads will come in the future—near future we hope.

It is rather tough at times to turn down a beggar, but we recall the warning we have received thousands of times from experienced welfare workers: That fully 90% of the beggars are frauds and are making more by begging than they can by honest work; that it does not pay to run the risk of giving to 10% honest persons in distress, with 90% of the odds being against you.

While we need a four lane highway between Canyon and Amarillo, the state needs a better, far better highway, in the Pampa section. That old highway is a real handicap.

If you have doubts about the advantages of newspaper advertising just look at the number of business men who keep putting their advertising in the Canyon News.

Mass demonstrations for political purposes is one European custom that seems to be growing in the United States.

The air mail, so far as most small communities are concerned, amounts to nothing except an added postage expense.

Have you sent any money to CARE (50 Broad St., New York) lately for the benefit of suffering peoples in other lands?

The Russians have a host of friends in the United States, including the business man who does nothing but grab a profit.

The people of this country are able to govern themselves despite the belief of so-called experts that somebody must save the people from themselves.

The business of religion is getting so well organized that it requires the full energy of the faithful to keep the machinery moving.

The way to peace lies through the surrender of all special privileges, by individuals and nations.

The needs of youth are constantly stressed in oratory but soft-pedaled when the question of funds arises.

Price of House Regulators is Up 55%

A West Texas Gas Company service man completes a new meter and house regulator installation.

Yet Natural Gas Service Remains
At the Same Low Pre-War Prices

Regulators are but one item. Everything behind your natural gas service has increased in price.

Like everything else, gas is more expensive to produce, more expensive to deliver to your home and business, but not one cent of this increased cost has been passed on to you.

The price of the meter, to which the house regulator is attached, is 105% higher than the meters purchased by West Texas Gas Company in 1940.

In face of the increased costs of regulators, meters, steel pipe, wages and other items... natural gas service for your home and business is still furnished you at 1940 prices!

Located in Amarillo at 717 Fillmore — Phone 4311. Funeral directors Serving The Panhandle For Over 40 Years.

It is eminently fitting in this review that we denote space and well merited tribute to the efficiency and conscientious work that has won for these well known professional men a prominent place among the modern funeral directors. They offer the very finest motor equipment and complete ambulance service.

There is no vocation requiring for its successful operation a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director and this particularly applies to these well known representatives of this profession. Through untiring efforts and commendable methods they have progressed from a modest beginning until today they possess a clientele that extends over many miles of this and surrounding territory.

As is well known they are recognized as among the most proficient and conscientious in this section and this distinction is well merited as the excellent service that they render in the practice of the profession will testify. It may be truly said that no one of this section engaged in the arduous profession of which they are an able exponent has given their profession closer study or is better equipped from every standpoint to carry out all details of their duties.

The Griggs Funeral Home has gained the name as reliable funeral directors which is not confined to the city but extends throughout this and adjoining territory.

It is eminently proper in this review of the community today that we give them special mention as among our highest esteemed and useful citizens, who in the successful practice of this useful profession has gained the good will of all who have dealings with them. ADV

I have never been a petitioner. For one thing, I don't think anybody pays much attention to them—not even the people who sign them.

Just to prove this point, a fellow circulated a petition and when folks asked what it was about, he replied, "Oh, just a move for public improvement." So they signed without reading it, 308 of them—and it was a petition that the district attorney be hanged.

And one of the signers was the district attorney.

There was one petition I did sign. The circumstances were these:

The town bully, under the influence of several drinks, entered a cafe, flourished a six-shooter and made a waiter jump back and forth over the counter, and threatened to kill him. The waiter went out, got a gun and came back.

Meanwhile the bad man, seating himself at the counter, remarked to the customer next to him, "Take your time about eating that soup because, when you get through, I'm going to shoot you." This threat took away the customer's appetite but the gunman commanded, "Eat!" and motioned with his pistol.

It was at this point that the waiter re-entered and shot the tough guy to death.

Instead of the authorities giving the slayer a gold medal for rendering a public service, they had him arrested and indicted, tried him and convicted him. And this was in Texas, too!

I signed a petition for his pardon and the petition worked, in a way. For he did not serve any time. The accused was granted a new trial and, when his case was called again, he just didn't show up.

These are the homes

These are the people

THESE are the people who own your electric light and power company. Chances are you are one of this group, too.

They represent a cross-section of America — housewives, doctors, teachers — industrial workers, craftsmen, farmers — mechanics and milkmen. Yes, people from all walks of life have put their savings into companies like ours. They're direct owners.

But there are countless indirect owners, too — many who don't know they have a stake in the electric industry. They're people with life insurance policies and savings accounts. When banks and insurance companies accept your money, they must invest it wisely. And because business-managed electric companies have a long record of successful service, much of that money is invested in utility securities.

So, you see, the electric industry is owned by the people it serves.

understands the needs and ambitions of the farmer. In this day it takes the concerted efforts of many "little men" to accomplish the things which are needed. A few "big" men cannot do the job, stated the speaker.

The speaker urged Rotarians to use their talents; to accomplish something worthwhile. Men are either builders or wreckers; producers or destroyers. Today we have more knowledge than understanding; more power than love. This day calls for uncommon men. The common man is afraid of everything he does not understand. The world needs men who are unafraid to tackle the big jobs of life, understandingly.

Too often when men move from the country to a city they become lost; afraid; and therefore useless to their fellow men. On the farm they have time to live; to think.

"We need the country. We need to go out and know the soil and to understand the problems of the soil. After all that is where we came from in this nation," stated the speaker.

The listeners were urged not to make "little plans." This is a big country and needs big men for big plans.

During the Longhorn days, ranchers lost half their cattle in a snow storm because they drifted with the wind. An observer noted that the buffalo went against the wind, and fed on the tall grass during the snow storms. As a result Hereford cattle were imported from England as being more nearly like the native buffalo.

The speaker urged men not to go with the crowd; not to drift with the wind. And there was no place on earth like the Panhandle of Texas.

Visitors were Dr. O. B. Miller, John Hazlewood, Allen Early, Joe C. Rogers, C. R. McAfee, all of Amarillo.

Singing Coach Says Margaret Has Fine Voice

NEW YORK.—Margaret Truman is learning to frown, to smile, to bow "loosely" and to sing distinctly under the gay, benign direction of a ruddy-cheeked Dutchman.

But, Coenraad V. Bos wants it understood, he's not teaching her how to sing. He's the singing coach of the nation's best known music student—not her singing teacher.

Coaching the daughter of the President of the United States is not a novel experience for the 73-year-old musician. An earlier pupil with professional ambitions was another Margaret, daughter of Woodrow Wilson.

In the course of a 52-year career Bos has been closely associated, as coach or accompanist, with some of the music world's outstanding performers. He is coach and accompanist to Helen Traubel and has been for 10 years. He thinks the blond soprano from St. Louis is the greatest living singer.

Only Beginning

He's enthusiastic, too, about his new pupil from Missouri.

"Of course she is only beginning," he said of Margaret Truman, "but she has a lovely voice. Her French is beautiful and she's very industrious and ambitious. But she needs help with her German. I'm going to start her on Schubert's 'Ave Maria.'"

Bos isn't prepared to say how long Miss Truman will work with him except that she intends to study "a long time."

"It's uncertain how soon she will sing in public," he said, "but what experience she already has had will stand her in good stead. Every young artist has to go through the business of stage fright, acquire stage presence. Now she wants to become a really fine artist and come out again."

Bos said his job includes correcting the language of the singers, working on their facial expressions. "Many singers work hard on foreign languages—they'll sing perfectly in French or German or Italian—and then neglect their own language," he continued.

"Also many singers—especially American girls—sing with no expression on their faces at all. They don't know how to use their brow to frown, if they're singing about death. Or to smile, if they are singing a gay song."

Training Is Thorough

Bos trains his students thoroughly in the fine art of taking bows.

"So many singers have no idea about this at all," he explained. "They bow so stiffly they look funny. I show them how to control themselves, be loose and relax and make their bows look elegant."

Although he is not a singing teacher, Bos is most careful of his pupils' voices.

"If for example, one of them develops a tremolo, then I send him back to his singing teacher to get it corrected," he said.

For his age, Bos is about as decrepit as a healthy cheerleader. Associates marvel at his ability to work an exhausting schedule without becoming fatigued.

Swim Suits This Year To Reveal More Wearer

LOS ANGELES.—This summer's swim suits made a formal debut and to nobody's surprise they revealed a lot.

The occasion was the opening of California apparel creators' press week.

Fred Cole of California explained. A swim suit is not hung on the body—it's an engineering proposition."

One of the most popular entries was Cole's sheath silhouette, designed by Margit Fellegi, which follows the body contour in graceful lines, set off by shirring. Another Cole standout is a skirted print number designed by Elza of Hollywood. Then there's a neat iridescent chambray with separate patio skirts.

The trend is to one piece outfits, mostly without straps. But there were plenty of the midriff variety, too, including one by Gantner called "Black Magic," fashioned entirely without vertical seams. As a result, says the press agent, the fit can't be improved.

Caltax features several short skirts and apron effects to flatter women a bit nipplier than the models. A favorite is a gingham creation called "Bloomer Girl." Catalina's entries include two piece black decorated with a white night blooming cereus and a dressy boucle knit, with ivy print on a slimming front panel. Rose Marie Reid has even done evening dresses over swim trunks, in metallic cottons. And a favorite of hers is a elasticized fabric.

Basically, the new stuff has held fairly close to the previously accepted in design—with plenty of room for suntan. But colors are generally softer, and all sorts of fabrics have gone to sea—chambrays, seersuckers, terry cloth, jacquard satins, tie silks, nylons, and even velvet and lame.

Philatelists See U. S. Stamp Deluge Harmful to Hobby

WASHINGTON.—Stamp collectors in this country already are lamenting that the 1949 U. S. stamp deluge is on.

Many individuals and groups have submitted suggestions for stamps to their congressmen. Some of the proposals have jelled into bills now pending in the nation's legislature.

If these bills become laws and the stamps become a reality, 1949 commemorative issues will be more amusing than a Mack Sennett comedy to the philatelic world—but a stark tragedy to U. S. collectors.

Some of the bills pending call for a stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of a race horse, the discovery of America by Leif Ericson, a Buffalo Bill stamp, one for the 170th anniversary of the Battle of Stony Point, another for a tribute to the 90th anniversary of the Titusville Oil Well.

H. L. Lindquist, publisher of Stamp magazines, comments on this sad state of affairs: "It would appear that the present trend must stop somewhere, for it will, if nothing is done to stop it, finally wear itself out. Collecting modern U. S. stamps will become as unpopular as the collecting of some of the late unlamented fripperies of what used to be known as the Axis countries."

"We can only hope that the right to choose the number and subject of stamps for the year will be returned to the post office department where it belongs, before the U. S. joins the list of unpopular philatelic countries."

Mongolia Yields Evidence Of Fabulous Civilization

MOSCOW, USSR.—The far-away reaches of Mongolia have yielded up evidence of a fabulous civilization which flourished there 2,000 years ago, a Leningrad professor said.

S. I. Rudenko, writing in the newspaper Evening Moscow, describes a natural "super-refrigerator" containing the mummified bodies of a tattooed man and a girl musician.

The discovery was made deep in the isolated Altai mountains of Outer Mongolia, where other excellently preserved mummies were found in 1947.

Rudenko said the tattooed man must have been a noble or a chief. The tattooing covers the entire body and is "astonishingly fine artistic work" consisting mostly of pictures of animals.

The woman, said Rudenko, "must have been a good musician, for she had fine, long, thin fingers and many musical instruments."

Other discoveries in the tomb of petrified logs—which because of the extreme cold and its construction turned into a natural icebox—included a gilded chariot, leather carpets, diadems of wood covered with thin gold; round bronze mirrors; exquisite tables and jewelry and partly dyed furs.

"Thousands of articles found there," said Rudenko, "give a clear picture of the life and customs of an ancient tribe that lived in the Altai region more than 2,000 years ago. Judging from many articles discovered, such as the skins of leopards and cheetahs, it can be guessed that the tribe traded with distant countries."

Boy Without Ears to Grow Hearing Aids in Abdomen

PITTSBURGH.—Eight-year-old Jimmy Meadors, Hartstown, Pa., is going to grow a pair of ears in his abdomen.

Jimmy was born without ears. Now doctors are going to provide what nature forgot.

He has undergone the first in a series of six to eight operations in Children's hospital, Dr. S. M. Dupertuis, a plastic surgeon, is in charge. The process will take two years.

Cartilage will be removed from Jimmy's ribs and molded into the shape of ears. The "ears" will then be placed in the boy's abdominal cavity for a period of time to foster tissue growth.

Later, they will be transplanted to the head where they will function as real "live ears."

Jimmy can hear normally now, despite the lack of ear openings on either side of his head. Doctors say he has normal auditory canals and eardrums.

The operations were arranged by the Greenville Rotary club. The boy's father is a fitter at the Greenville Steel Car company.

Truman Declared Owner Of "Most Hypnotic" Eyes

LOS ANGELES.—The most hypnotic eyes in the world belong to President Truman, Premier Stalin, singer Rise Stevens, actress Jane Greer, actor Kirk Douglas and Senator Margaret Chase of Maine, the National Institute of Hypnotism has concluded.

The group said it found "compassionate understanding" in Senator Chase's eyes and "smoldering promise" in Miss Greer's.

Keep not ill company lest you increase the number.—George Herbert.

Huge Interscholastic League Band Contest To Bring 6,000 To Canyon

If WT students think that previous week ends have brought hordes of visitors to the campus, they had better hang on to their hats around April 28, 29, and 30.

On those dates, over 6,000 high school musicians will bulge the seams of Buffalodome. They will be here to participate in the Region I Interscholastic League Band Competition.

While here the high school tooters will attempt to appease the critical ears of judges by rendering sight reading, concert playing, ensemble work, solo works and marching ability.

Judges for the bands will be Bernard Fitzgerald, Director of Symphonic Band, University of Texas; James Neilson, Director of Musical Organizations, Oklahoma City University; James Kerr, Director of Bands, University of Wichita (Kansas); and Roger Penn, Director of Instrumental Music, University of Tulsa.

Solo and Ensemble judges are Robert L. Maddox, Director of Odessa High School Band; William Wehrend, Director of Denver City, Texas High School Band; Pat Arsen, Director of Alamo Heights High School Band in San Antonio and President of the Texas Bandmasters Association; and Verne Reimer, Director of the Ft. Stockton, Texas, High School Band.

Band concerts will begin at 7 p. m., April 28 in the Administration Auditorium with Hereford Elementary School leading off. Other bands to be presented the first night will be Friona Elementary, Phillips Elementary and Abernathy Elementary. These bands will be allowed 30 minutes warm-up before giving their 30 minute concert.

Friday, April 29, class A and C bands will hold the spotlight with Hereford High School in the primary spot. Following at 30 minute intervals throughout the day are bands from Dumas High School, Lockney High School, Muleshoe High School, Littlefield High School, Dalhart High School, Memphis High School, Slaton High School, Levelland High School, Wellington High School, Brownfield High School, Spur High School, Perryton High School, Sam Houston Junior High School in Amarillo, OL Slaton Junior High School in Lubbock, Elizabeth Nixon Junior High School in Amarillo, Thompson Junior High School, Plainview High School, and Pampa Junior High School.

Preliminaries
These bands will be allowed 30 minutes in the warm-up room in the Women's Gymnasium before going to the Main Auditorium for a 30 minute concert and to the Band House for 30 minute Sight Reading contests.

Class D, B, AA, and AA1 bands will be heard Saturday, April 30. Heading the day's program in Class D will be Canyon High School, followed by Tulia High School, Wildorado High School, Dimmitt High School, Stinnett High School, Abernathy High School and Spearman High School.

Class B bands to follow are Friona High School, White Deer High School, Canadian High School, Whiteface High School, Sundown High School and Plains High School.

Immediately after the Class B bands, the Class AA high school bands will feature Plainview High School, Borger High School, and Lamesa High School.

AA1 Bands

Class AA1 bands that play next are Amarillo High School, Pampa High School and Lubbock High School.

These bands will follow the same schedule for warm-up, concert and sight-reading as those on Friday.

Friday's musical presentations begin at 8:30 a. m. and continue until 6 p. m. Saturday's also begins at 8:30 and lasts until 6.

Colorful marching bands will take over Buffalo Stadium both Friday and Saturday night. Each band is assigned to an inspection area 16 minutes prior to their scheduled entrance onto the field. At the end of six minutes on the field a warning signal will be given to the drum major of each band and at the end of seven minutes the band must be off the field. One minute is allowed after the departure of each band until the entrance of the next.

Friday Night Marching

Leading off at 7:30 p. m. Friday night, Sam Houston Junior High School is followed at eight minute intervals by Elizabeth Nixon, Hereford, Dumas, Phillips, Littlefield, Memphis, Levelland, Wellington and Brownfield.

Saturday night's marching panorama begins at 7:30 with Tulia. Next are White Deer, McLean, Canadian, Whiteface, Sundown, Plainview, Borger, Lamest, Amarillo, Pampa and Lubbock.

All during the day both Friday and Saturday, solo and ensemble contests will be conducted in various rooms in buildings over the campus. Included in these contests are Cornet Solo, Tuba Solo, French Horn Solo, Mellophone Solo, Trombone Solo, Baritone Solo, Brass Sextet, Cornet Trio, Brass Quartet, French Horn Quartet, and Trombone Quartet.

Woodwind contests are Alto Sax Solo, Flute Solo, Oboe Solo, Tenor Sax Solo, Alto Sax Solo, Baritone Sax Solo, Bassoon Solo, Alto Clarinet Solo, Eb Clarinet Solo, Bass Clarinet Solo, Flute Trio, Sax Quartet, Woodwind Trio, Woodwind Quintet, Clarinet Quartet, and Clarinet Trio.

Twirling Contests

What may prove to be the most spectacular of the individual contests is the twirling contests. They will be held in front of the Speech Building Friday from 10:00 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 5:00. Saturday they will be staged from 2:00 until 4:30.

Ratings of all solo and ensemble events will be announced periodically by loudspeakers outside the Band Building and on bulletin boards. Band Ratings will be announced as quickly as possible after completion of each class in the Main Auditorium as well as by loudspeaker and bulletin board. Individual awards such as medals, plaques and trophies will be distributed during the contest from the office just inside the front door of the Band Building. M. J. Newman is director of Regional 1 competition.

BREAKING IT GENTLY

Murphy, one of the best railroad engineers the road had, met with a fatal accident and his best pal was called upon to break the news to Murphy's wife. Wanting to break it gently he proceeded in this fashion:

"Mrs. Murphy, do you know that Lincoln is dead?"
"Why, yes, of course."
"Well, so's your old man!"

SOME CARS ARE LIKE THAT

The tourist rushed into the country store. "I want a quart of oil, some gas, a couple of spark plugs, a timer, a five-gallon kerosene can and four pie tins."

"All right," replied the enterprising clerk, "and you can assemble her in the back room if you want to."

ONE WAY OF DOING IT

The Waiter: We have nice braised ox tails and some fine boiled beef tongue today, sir.

The customer: In spite of the high cost you manage to make both ends meet.

INGENIOUS

Most ingenious man we know is the neighbor who mislays his vegetable seeds each year. It's amazing, he says, how much this simple precaution saves wear and tear on garden tools.

RISKY

The risk attendant to child-bearing has reached a new low in the United States, according to the Public Health Service. It would be nice if the same could be said for the risk attendant to being born.

Families along the old Maginot line are now living in its cozy bunkers with six-foot steel and concrete walls, etc. We thought our public housing planners would like to know what is being done elsewhere.

Sunday School Habits Will Be Revived in USA

It has become very popular to talk about the importance of saving our American way of life. As a matter of fact, the only way we can lose it is for the American people themselves to become so negligent in exercising the rights and privileges they have under our form of government that the liberties they take for granted will go by default.

We have to work at being Americans if we wish to perpetuate the blessing left to us by our forefathers. American parents must strive to help develop character in their children, which is necessary to combat enemies both from within and without our borders.

The essential qualification for the perpetuation of our representative form of government is character, and that is developed on a foundation of religious teaching.

National Sunday School Week is sponsored by the Layman's National Committee, a non-sectarian, non-profit organization created to bring about a better understanding of the important part religion has played in creating and maintaining our government. Helping develop character in children through some form of religious training cannot be delegated by parents to someone else.

A good time to reawaken old-fashioned ideas is to go to Sunday School with the family, and thereby help counteract the teachings of alien, godless ideologies.

Walker Authors Two Short Stories

Jack Walker has another appellation to carry after his name. With the titles of radio and speech instructor, he can add author.

The WT instructor sold two short stories to The Denver Post recently which will be published in the Sunday magazine section. They are "The Left-Handed Barber" and "Timber Creek Turkey Shoot." Elvan Howe, editor of the Post, in writing to Loula Grace Erdman about Walker said: "The stories are of such quality I found it hard to believe he is an unknown. They are, in fact, so good that we broke our rule of no fiction to publish both."

Announcement Is Made of Drive for Savings Bonds

The people of Randall County are being asked to invest a total of $33,000 in Series E Savings Bonds during the Treasury's Department's "Opportunity Drive," May 16 thru June 30.

This quota was announced by R. H. Wright, Randall County Savings Bonds chairman, after he had received the figure in a letter from Nathan Adams of Dallas, chairman of the Treasury's advisory committee for Texas.

Announcement of quotas for this and all other Texas counties followed a dinner given in Houston Tuesday night by Governor Beauford H. Jester and at which volunteers from all sections of the state were honored for their work in the Savings Bonds program.

"All quotas, including ours, apply only to the sale of Series E Savings Bonds," Mr. Wright said. "In this drive we want to place more Savings Bonds in the hands of average people, who, with the proceeds of their thrift, can enjoy opportunities and advantages not otherwise possible. At the same time, by their investments in Savings Bonds, they are helping to manage our national debt in such a way as to more nearly assure a strong economy in this country. The Series E bonds—popularly called the 'people's bonds'—are ideal for individuals."

He said that Series F and G Savings Bonds would be sold as usual throughout the drive, but that their sale would not be counted against the quota. The Series F and G bonds, he explained, are normally preferred by business concerns, organizations and individuals of larger means.

"I urge the people of this county, and all of its communities, to participate in this Opportunity Drive to the full of their ability," he said. "The county Savings Bonds committee can always use citizens who can devote a part of their time to work in the drive, and I invite them to contact me. To others, I sincerely urge that they buy Savings Bonds and, if possible, to do so regularly through the Bond-A-Month plan at their bank. This kind of thrift is the kind that pays dividends to the individual, the community and the nation."

G. B. Combs returned last Tuesday from a visit in Texarkana, Texas, where he visited in the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barker. On his return trip he was joined in Dallas by Mrs. C. V. Lowe, another daughter of Gruver, for a shopping tour of Dallas and Ft. Worth.

Mrs. Grace Knighton has been in Rotan this week teaching a Mission Study Course.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McGraw of Ft. Worth visited last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Farlow.

Dr. Donnell At Show of Milking Shorthorn Cattle

The following excerpt from a story by David Rasco of the Amarillo News tells of the visit of Dr. C. E. Donnell of Plainview to the dairy show held in Plainview. Dr. Donnell is the father of Charles Donnell of Canyon and Reeves Donnell of Umbarger.

Like an old fire horse answering an alarm, Dr. C. E. Donnell turned up today at the judging of Milking Shorthorn entries at the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show.

Dr. Donnell was one of the first Milking Shorthorn breeders in the Panhandle. He was showing champions back in the days when most of the present breeders were in knee-britches. Because of failing health, Dr. Donnell sold out interest in his herd some three or four years ago.

His son, Reeves Donnell of Canyon, kept the Donnell name in the ring for a year or two and then was forced to retire from the business. But the Don Acres Farm, home of the Donnell herd, still produces champions.

The grand champion bull shown today was Don Acres Improver, now owned by Henry Rothwell of Dimmitt, one of the hardest working Milking Shorthorn showmen in the business.

Dr. Donnell's appearance in the show ring had a dramatic touch. He admits he's "not feeling too hot." That's the reason he retired from his medical practice at Canyon and moved to Plainview a few years ago. "I really shouldn't be here," he exclaimed as he walked onto the wet sand-covered floor of the arena. "But I just couldn't resist it."

A few minutes after Dr. Donnell came to the ring, Don Acres Improver gained the grand champion's banner for Mr. Rothwell—reflecting credit on Donnell breeding. Even for a Milking Shorthorn, Don Acres Improver is a giant. The bull weighs more than 2,200 pounds and reflects some of the best attributes of the breed.

Governmental waste was again on parade in Washington during the past week.

The navy started building a huge carrier, the largest in the world. From its decks it would be possible to launch the biggest planes.

For a long while the Army Air Force has opposed this waste of public money, about $189 millions. After work had been in progress for a week and millions spent in preliminaries, Secretary of Defense Johnson issued an order stopping construction.

Friday afternoon the 15th, the Centreview Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. E. M. Wilson with thirteen members and two visitors present.

A very interesting program was rendered on pest control by Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Schaeffer, Mrs. Wesley, Mrs. Shipman, and Mrs. Wilson. A letter was passed around. It was from the club's French family.

Unfortunately no one could interpret it but it was an acknowledgment of their having received the club packages.

A report was made that the satin had been shipped.

Lemonade and cookies were served to all present.

Court Upholds State's Right For Open Shop

"There cannot be wrung from a constitutional right of workers to assemble to discuss improvement of their own working standards, a further constitutional right to drive from remunerative employment all other persons who will not or cannot participate in union assemblies. The constitutional right of workers to assemble, to discuss and formulate plans for furthering their own self interests in jobs cannot be construed as a constitutional guarantee that none shall get and hold jobs except those who will join in the assembly or will agree to abide by the assembly's plans."

That opinion was not written by some reactionary employer, with an anti-union bias. It was written by Justice Hugo Black of the United States Supreme Court, and it was unanimously approved by his colleagues in a case involving the right of states to prohibit the closed shop. The union had argued that the constitutional guarantees of free speech and assembly covered the closed shop. The court of last resort emphatically disagreed.

Mr. Justice Black wrote, in formal language, a principle which needs restating. It is simply that the states have the power to protect the right of a man to work without joining a union. The closed shop is a denial of that right. It makes it impossible for a man to work at his trade and support himself and his family unless he first joins a union and pays it tribute. How can that situation be reconciled with our concepts of individual freedom?

Several states have now outlawed the closed shops and others are considering it. Justice Black's opinion—which has been buttressed by the opinions of other Justices—unequivocally guarantees that they have the right to do so.

Cleanliness In Eating Places Up To the Patrons

Emphasizing the importance of proper sanitation standards in public eating establishments, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, urges the patrons of such establishments to insist upon cleanliness in the preparation and dispensing of foods.

The health authorities cannot maintain daily inspection of cafes and other food handling places, and if the public is careless in accepting sanitary conditions, dozens of infectious diseases can be transmitted to the public from insanitary food and utensils.

"Food handlers schools are being taught constantly throughout the State," Dr. Cox said, "and every cafe owner should take advantage of these schools to see that his personnel is trained in the sanitary methods of preparing, storing and dispensing food to the public. If that is their profession, they should qualify themselves to do the work safely. This is the restaurant owner's responsibility to his patrons."

The public should insist upon a cafe being free from roaches, flies, and other insects; cracked dishes should never be used; tables and linens, as well as dishes and silverware should be scrupulously clean, and milk should be served in the original container, with the cap intact. They should note whether or not a cafe displays a placard stating that its standards of sanitation have been approved by local or State health officials.

"Obviously the best in sanitation can be had only through close cooperation between the public, and health officials. As long as the public approves and accepts insanitary conditions in eating establishments, they will continue to exist," Dr. Cox warned.

The three armed forces are planning to pool their medical specialists and concentrate them in various military hospitals, as a result of an order for joint Army-Navy-Air Force diagnostic and treatment centers. The order is part of the efforts to get better teamwork from the armed forces.

MUSTANGS Wild Horses of the Plains!

BY J. EVETTS HALEY
ILLUSTRATED BY H. D. BUGBEE

MUSTANGS! WILD HORSES! Magic words to men of imagination! Hence, it is that stories of the mustangs—that lost breed of history—still intrigue all men who love good horses. Back of the story of mustangs, however, is one of the wildest odysseys in history.

It is now generally held that the horse originated in America, that he spread throughout the world in prehistoric times, and that he then died out in the land of his origin. Scattered diminutive fossil remains throughout the southern Plains point to his beginnings here. Aeons later, and in historic times, hundreds of thousands of mustangs, sweeping across the Southwest in spirited and colorful bands, marked his return. The very sight of a good horse used to be—in fact still is—a challenge to bold adventure. Nothing is impossible to men who really believe in horses.

History seems to prove the point. The horse of the Moors came to the Indies of the New World with the explorers from ancient Spain in the 1490's. He reached the mainland and played a vital part in the fantastic conquest of Mexico by Cortez in 1521, crossed the Plains with Coronado in 1541, escaped from numerous later Spanish exploring expeditions, reverted to the wild state, and spread, with tossing mane and flowing tail, expanding girth and hardening hoofs, from the hot valleys of Mexico and the rocky ranges of the Montezumas clear across the continent to the Arctic plains of Canada—all in less than a hundred and fifty years.

Thus this marvelous bundle of muscle and nerve, and of sense and stamina, returned in wild and prolific vigor to reclaim the land of his origin, and to revolutionize life in the western half of the New World. For some three hundred years he reigned free and supreme. Meanwhile, Indians mounted on mustangs that they had caught and gentled, battled with fair-faced warriors who rode hard to meet them, while men actually grown to the shape of saddles moved their longhorned cattle upon the lands the Indians lost. Eventually, other men with horses killed off the buffalo herds, and for one brief moment, as time is measured, the great and grass-grown Plains were little more than a wild horse range.

These horses, usually in bands of from twenty to forty head, jealously and dangerously ruled by a single stallion, swept out from their waterings in circuits of several miles to graze their favorite range. They congregated in great herds and pawed their feed from the snow in the breaks of winter, and by hard fighting among themselves, the stallions again cut their mares and struck out in individual bunches as grass rose in the spring.

For some time, both red men and white levied on this vast reservoir of horse flesh without touching the supply. But in the late 1870's, as men moved farther west and demanded more grass for their cattle, other men mounted on grain-fed horses began catching mustangs in droves and trailing them off to the settlements to market. They became the mustangers, and their work developed into a sort of a science, or at times an art, that was known as mustanging.

They either "walked down" the wild horses by keeping after them for days, or trapped them in bunches by hazing or stampeding them into the wide, converging wings of hidden corrals. After trapping, they forefooted them and attached a clog to a fore-leg of each, which tripped the horse whenever he broke to run, and then trailed them off in bunches for trade or sale.

Yet the mustangers made little impression upon this immense herd that still covered the open face of the Great Plains. Only the invention of barbed wire, and its cutting of the range to pieces, brought an end to the wild horse.

But wherever his recumbent mares peacefully slept on the clean turf beneath his watchful eye, wherever his colts pitched about and cut their capers in sheer joy of living, and wherever he tossed his noble head as he scented danger and snorted his challenge through resonant nostrils from afar, there he will never be forgotten. For in a way the mustang made the Western World, and grateful men never forget their horses.

Try as hard as he could, the British comedian's jokes were falling flat. At last he lost patience. "Blimey!" he exclaimed bitterly. You people don't seem to know how to applaud. Why don't you clap? Are you all handcuffed?"

"No, darling," her husband answered firmly; let's save the money and eat at home."

Mystery Shrub, Sick Cow Lead To Big Nursery

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—A Tennessee farmer's conception of what constitutes an economic "fair deal" in man's eternal struggle to wrest a livelihood from nature has resulted in the establishment of one of the major businesses of this region.

The farmer, a cow with an indiscriminate appetite and a fragrant, maroon colored shrub with mysterious properties were the principals in a farmland "tragedy" some 60 years ago that eventually brought about the founding of the huge plant nursery business of this state.

Today large acreages and scores of concerns are engaged in the nursery business in this area. Several thousand persons are employed in the business and its monetary value is estimated in millions of dollars.

People Help

In Warren county alone some 500 people help put approximately 1,500 acres of land to the growing and development of fruit trees, flowers, ornamental shrubs and other plants for sale throughout the nation.

It was in rich Sequatchie valley in the early 1880's that a cow belonging to J. H. H. Boyd did some nibbling in a patch of "sweet shrub," known to every country boy and girl for its bright petaled, sweet smelling bloom.

In a few hours farmer Boyd had the sickest cow in the valley. Local "cow doctors" tried all their remedies for "holer horn" and "holer tail," but the cow died.

Farmer Boyd gathered some specimens of "sweet shrub" and mailed them to the United States department of agriculture, with an inquiry as to what it was about this plant that killed his cow.

He was notified that the botanical name of the plant was calycanthus and that its seed pod contained a substance that was poison to some animals but was also much in demand for medicinal purposes.

Farmer Boyd determined that the calycanthus should pay him for the loss of his cow. So he started harvesting seed pods from "sweet shrubs" and selling them to various laboratories.

Methods Studied

This led to an interest in other plants and a study of methods of growing and propagation. In 1887 he opened a regular nursery business, offering native plants, shrubs and seedlings to the public. He called the concern the Forest Nursery co.

Farmer Boyd's son, J. R. Boyd, still operates the company as a wholesale business. Another son, F. C. Boyd, has a wholesale and retail nursery, and a grandson, J. Austin Boyd, is in the nursery business also.

In J. R. Boyd's newest catalog there is listed as available, and priced by the dozen or by the hundred, the following item: "calycanthus ('sweet shrub')."

Meat Industry Derides Scientific Substitutes

CHICAGO.—The American meat institute has characterized as "ridiculous" and "just plain nonsense" many of the statements attributed to a group of allied and German scientists in a dispatch from Frankfurt, Germany, in which the scientists disclosed that they had produced and were ready to distribute "two food substitutes that are said to taste and have the same nutritious qualities as milk and meat."

The institution, an organization of the country's meat packers, voiced its criticism in a bulletin titled "'Ersatz' Meat Crop Up Again," which, along with a photostatic copy of the dispatch, was distributed to its members.

Signed by Wesley Harzenbergh, the bulletin said:

"This is another of the long series of 'discoveries' as to how people can get the nutrition of meat from a pill, a capsule, the end result of some chemical process, field crops grown for farm animals, minute animal life that swims in the sea, protein derived from sawdust, a combination of powdered vegetables, and so on.

"For example, the flavor of meat does not come from monosodium glutamate. This product is supposed to enhance the flavor of various foods.

"For another example, the statement is made that all protein is alike. This emphatically is not true. There are two kinds of protein—complete and incomplete. Meat is a complete protein food."

French Family Files Suit Against Grasping Medium

TOULOUSE.—A French farmer family near Toulouse is suing a woman clairvoyant.

Their cattle were dying of a strange malady. She advised them not to go out after dark, prescribed a "magic" brew, went around the house with an olive branch to dispel the "curse" told them to move—and charged them a fee of 190,000 francs ($880).

For a boy in the family who had stomach trouble, she prescribed a "magic" powder, took 12 dozen eggs, 12 pounds of sausages—and a "refresher" fee of 140,000 francs ($652).

Berry-Campbell Wedding in Clovis

Miss Vernell Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Berry, became the bride of Ray Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Campbell Saturday night in Clovis, New Mexico. Rev. English, pastor of the First Methodist Church read the services.

For her wedding Miss Berry chose a pink linen frock with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. James Berry, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were the attendants.

At the time of her marriage the bride was working at the Student Union. Mr. Campbell is with the Texas Oil Company in Dalhart, where the couple will make their home for the present.

Louis Philippi Gets Paid for Scrambling Movie Stars' Faces

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF.—This is about the man who wreaks mayhem on the movie stars.

The man is Louis Philippi. He has bloodied the noses and messed up the maps of a half dozen high salaried stars. He gets paid for it.

If you have been in a night club brawl, Hollywood is full of people who'll disguise your black eye and repair your hangover.

If you haven't, Philippi will make you look as if you had.

It's not easy. It takes Philippi two and a half hours every morning to make up Marshall Thompson for "Roseanna McCoy." A McCoy who happened to meet a Hatfield, Thompson suffers a bullet wound in the right shoulder, bruised cheekbone, black eye, cut under left eye brow, scalp wound, scraped chin, torn earlobe and bloody nose.

They all are inflicted, painlessly, by Philippi.

"I keep a file of pictures from the newspaper of people who get drunk or battered up," Philippi said. "They are indexed according to the type of work required. I can produce about a hundred different types of lacerations."

He designs and executes each scratch with the care of a portrait artist, fixing it on with a palette knife and dark lipstick. He uses a small brush and an assortment of grease paints for bruises and a rubber sponge with rouge for abrasions.

"The day has passed when you could smear on some lipstick and lamplight and call it a day," he said. "Even flesh wounds have to be documentary these days. A black eye, for instance, isn't really black but red or blue or yellow-green, depending on how long since it got hit."

So before he wets his sponge Philippi demands to know when the fight happened, how and where and by whom the blows were delivered and what if any weapons were employed.

Artificial blood, something new on the market, makes Philippi's job easier. It comes in two colors—bright for fresh wounds and dark for old ones—and coagulates like the real thing. He squirts it on with a syringe.

The only film fight in which Philippi directly participated was in "The Red Pony," Bob Mitchum was knocked under a table and came up with a bloody nose.

"I was hiding under the table," Philippi whispered, "with a sponge soaked in blood. When Bob came down, I pasted him on the nose."

Man Begins Third Year Of "Life Like Death"

FRAMINGHAM, MASS.—For 32-year-old Ralph C. Abbott the third year of life like death. He has been unconscious in a hospital bed since February 17, 1947.

On that morning his car hit a tree and he was flung headlong against a stone wall.

The darkness has never lifted once. It has touched, too, his wife and mother and father, Isaac Abbott, 62.

Every day for two full years now the elderly father has come to sit beside his son's bed.

Surgeons have said that Ralph will never awake. Past repair, they said, is that part of the brain which could stir his mind or open his eyes.

Every hour the sleeping man is fed concentrated liquid food through a nose tube. Every two hours attendants at Cushing Veterans Administration hospital turn him in his bed.

Every day his father sits beside him. A nurse said "That's all he can do. Sit beside him and hope."

Three-Year Old Tot Safe After Night in Forest

READING, PA.—Weary searchers who hunted through the night found Reading's babe in the woods unharmed but "terribly scared."

Three-year-old Billy Abbott vanished at 4:30 p. m. the day before. A thousand men, women and children pitched into the search. They found him lying in a clump of grass at 1:40 p. m.

Billy was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital and dismissed 10 minutes later after an examination disclosed no injury but that his temperature was low.

"It doesn't seem possible," one attendant said, "that he stayed outdoors throughout the night."

He was taken home in the official car of the assistant fire chief in his home town of Laureldale, a Reading suburb. All the fire sirens in Laureldale were turned loose to hail discovery of the boy.

His father, Arthur, who said earlier that Billy was "a very timid boy" and that "he never wandered off before," accompanied his son home in the fire car.

For a while, Billy said nothing. Then he reached into his father's coat and took out a cigarette lighter.

"I played with one of these last night," Billy said. "Where?" his father asked him. "At the house where I slept," Billy replied.

Further questioning failed to uncover any more details of how the little boy spent the night.

IN BROOKLYN, ONE DAY

It not only can happen in Brooklyn, but did.

The policeman pulled up alongside and motioned me to the curb. "Show me your license," said he. "You passed a red light."

"If I passed a light," I answered truthfully, "it was unintentional. I'm a teacher and it's part of my job to teach others to obey the laws." "Oh," he cocked an eyebrow, "so you're a teacher. . . ."

"Yes," I admitted. I watched him hesitate in the act of pulling the summons pad from his pocket. "Where do you teach?"

I told him. "What do you teach?"

"English."

"Well, tell me," he said, tapping the summons pad against his fingers, "is it right to say 'my wife and I' or 'my wife and me'?"

"That depends," I replied, much relieved at this unexpected turn, "on whether it's the subject or the object."

"My brother invited my wife and I to dinner—is that right or wrong?"

"Wrong. It should be 'my wife and me,' object of invited."

"You're a teacher all right," he nodded, returning my credentials. "Now, go ahead and don't be passing any more red lights; teach!"

The dog, a large German shepherd, died in 1942. The will gave $400 to the cemetery for perpetual care of the dog's grave.

Homemakers Produce Show

Lady Fashion for the style show given Wednesday morning in assembly by all the homemaking girls was Janey Forester. The show displayed the latest styles appropriate for all the hours of the day. Beginning with early morning, pajamas and housecoats made at home by some of the girls were modeled. School dresses were styled by the Freshman class girls. Other fashions modeled were spectator's sports suits, afternoon tea dresses, date dresses and formal dresses.

The tea dresses were shown at a mock tea. Guests were greeted by Suzanne Stephenson, and Mabel Graham poured the tea.

"Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," "Alphabet Song," "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody," "Take Me Out To The Ball Game," "Oh You Beautiful Doll," "Stardust," and "Good-night Sweetheart" were sung by the quintet, June Chain, Betty Ross, Craig, Paye Gunter, Barbara McDougal, and Medie Bullard accompanied by Donna Erwin.

A cardboard alarm clock indicating the time the dresses were worn was on the stage which was appropriately decorated with spring flowers.

COMMON COURTESY

Do you like to have somebody cut in front of you in the lunchroom line? Of course not, and the people that don't wait to be called and crash the line aren't being fair to the ones who wait. The reason the students have to wait is because it saves a lot of confusion, keeps the line from forming almost to the top of the stairs, and saves much waiting. With the present system there is very little waiting, and the line moves without much trouble. If all the student body will cooperate, it will be a more pleasant place to eat.

Let's rise above an animal urge! So you are hungry! Everybody is hungry, also! If there is a time that requires politeness, it is when one is going to lunch.

OUR EGGS, WHERE?

Jimmy Jones came to Hilltop from Browning. He immediately made fast friends with Billy Smith. His other classmates repeatedly asked Jimmy to join in their games but Jimmy refused because Billy thought they were "kid stuff."

After a few months Billy Smith moved to a neighboring town and left Jimmy feeling lost and alone. Jimmy was left without friends because he had snubbed the boys when he first came and they would have nothing to do with him now.

This moral goes to all the Jimmys and Billys in hope that they don't put all their eggs in one basket, and depend upon one person or one thing but widen their friendships and generosity to include every person, despite their color or creed.

Shirley Dixon was with Travis Payne last Tuesday night.

Melba Stroup and Leo Erwin were together at the local cinema one night last week. This Melba surely does get around.

Hey! Patsy Braddock, did you, Annette Rusk and Melba Stroup have fun Friday night at that dance at Happy?

A little bird told me that Jimmie Parsons and Ara Beth Prichard have been seeing quite a lot of each other here lately, since they had dates on both Friday and Saturday nights. Is this an affair you have not notified Ole Cal about?

I just heard that Mr. Miller is thinking of renting Berkeley SoRelle's voice for a fire siren for the school, since it has such carrying qualities. Harry Campfield may be quite put out about that fact. He has been champion "loud talker" for the last semester.

Could June Jennings and Billy Cleavinger live through the day without that little chat in the hall after first period.

Albert Craig Ties Regional Record In Pole Vaulting

Albert Craig brought back the honors in the pole vault by clearing the bar at ten feet, six inches to set a new regional record and tie for first place. There was a large field of good vaulters to beat and he left all but one at ten, six and both boys went out at the next raise of the bar.

The other boy to place was Philip Busted who took fourth place in the 220 dash.

The 440 relay team placed fourth but was disqualified for moving out of the hand-off line.

F.H.A. Girls Hear Mrs. Ples Harper

Speaking on customs of Peru, Mrs. Ples Harper addressed the bi-monthly FHA meeting last week. Mrs. Harper lived in Peru five years, and taught in a school there for sometime.

Topics discussed by Mrs. Harper were the educational system, economic status, social customs, celebrations, and marketing customs of the country.

"No middle class will be found in Peru, there are very few rich," says Mrs. Harper, "and the others are poor. Because of this the pupils must take two weeks of rigid government tests. A group of questions, covering the subject studied are put in a box, and each pupil draws a question from the box, if he cannot answer it, another chance is given, if he cannot answer the third question he draws, he fails the course."

Politeness is the key note of the country. If one asks a policeman a question such as "Is Amarillo this way?" No matter in which direction he is pointing, the officer will say "yes" because he doesn't want to be disagreeable.

"As a result of this discussion the girls appreciate America more, but would like to visit South America and Peru," states Mrs. Perry Bell, advisor.

Canyon High Eaglettes Swamp Eagles in 'Freak' Girl's Game

Canyon High's "manly dressed" Eaglettes won a decisive battle over the feminine dressed Eagles Thursday night in the Grade School Gym.

The game was under way at 8 o'clock (and so was the laughter of the crowd). It was quite a novelty to see the boys dressed as women and the girls garbed in the latest "manly" clothes.

The referees (Mr. W. L. Potter and Bill Gregory) were swamped by the over crowded court after a few minutes of play and soon even a card game was going on between Billy Cleavinger and Joe Abbott. Mr. Potter soon became disgusted with the way things were progressing and began playing to suit himself. Incidentally, he racked up a few points for the Eaglettes with the help of the other referee.

Some of the "most laughed at characters" were Janey Forester and her pillow stuffed trousers, Billy Cleavinger and his black hose, Jimmie Lindsey and his hairy chest, Mary Sue and Bobby Foster with their overalls and their railroad caps, Richard Walters and his form fitting sweater and Troy Burrus and Mickey King with their garters.

CHS Girls Begin Softball Practice

Canyon High's girl softball team had its first workout Monday afternoon. Plans are being made for another softball tournament to be held at the baseball diamond at the college. Tentative plans have been set for May 7th. Eight teams will be invited. College P. E. majors will be umpires for the single elimination tournament and ribbons will be given at 1st, 2nd, and sportsmanship winners.

Girls coming out Monday were: Mary Sue Foster, Dorothy Duniven, Patty Ford, Jo Parker, Carol Hamblen, Lorayne Carter, Bobby Ford, and Anita Kersey. Several girls were unable to go out Monday but are expected out later.

Cafeteria Scene Banquet

Picnic Provides Annual Holiday

Picnic? Did I hear someone say we're going on a picnic? Oh yes, the students of Canyon High are going on the annual all school picnic.

Ag Boys Test Forge, Turn Dense Smoke On Two Classes

Fire! Fire! Almost shouted Perry Bell and Herman Demus. They and their students rushed from class rooms last Thursday, choking with smoke which was pouring from the attic ventilators into their rooms.

Panting with excitement and expecting the new barracks buildings to momentarily burst into flames, they ran toward the agriculture department to locate the worst part of the fire. Some one was sure it was necessary to turn all lights off, and acted accordingly.

Yes, it was those Ag boys! They had turned on the forge which created such a dense smoke, that Mr. Devin, to clear the room opened all doors. Contrary to plans, the smoke rose, filled the attic and poured out at all ceiling ventilators to create panic in class rooms.

"Here's hoping there will be no more cries of "Wolf, Wolf!" and that the god of fire passes us by as easily each time we are threatened," declare both Mr. Demus and Mr. Bell in unison.

Did you know there will be an amateur show held after the senior box supper, Friday, May 2?

According to the tradition of CHS Seniors will be dined at eight o'clock in the school cafeteria, and later danced in Randall Hall ball room, Saturday night by the Juniors. The speaker will be Mr. Bob Wear from Hereford who is the Lion's Club district zone chairman.

Many features of the banquet will be kept secret; such as, table and room decorations, the program and menu; but by the amount of work being done, and the whispering on the side one feels sure that it is to be an event with outstanding "Pomp and Circumstance." Junior and Senior girls blush and look coy, momentarily expecting dates as Junior and Senior boys approach.

The committee in charge of plans for the banquet is made up of the following Juniors: Donna Erwin, Mickey King, Mary Ellen Funston, Wayne Prichard, Bruce Winn, and Joe Abbott, class president.

Have you ever eaten at the Waldorf? At the Brown Derby? The Stork Club? Eat at a more refined joint . . . the Senior Box Supper, Friday, May 2, at 7:30 p. m.

Band Enters Region Contest

Society Sue

Around the campus. . .

Carol Hamblin looked lovely in a royal blue suit with a cape-like effect jacket.

Mickey King was strutting around in a figured sport shirt, (and levi's, of course).

Pink chambray dresses seem to be all the rage. All in one day, I saw Jo Parker, Barbara Glanton, Ava Dooley, and Joyce Payne "dolled up" in that kind and color.

Sue and Fay Dickerson wore some brown riding pants which were, incidentally, birthday gifts.

Melva Martin was devastating in a green, chambray dress with a plunging neckline and Empire waist effect.

Willis Parsons sports two new shirts; one green and one gray.

Ruby Lee Bonds styled a lavender dress trimmed in panels of all-over embroidery. This color really "sets off" her dark complexion.

Eme Gene Zachry wore a tooled leather belt which was presented to her by the Eaglettes whom she managed last season. It has her nickname, "Inky," on the back of it.

Alice Jean Gill is quite chic in a waffle-pique, sun-back dress.

Good bye. . .

Remember the box supper the seniors sponsored last year and all the fun everyone had? Well, the seniors are sponsoring another one this year. May 2, in the high school cafeteria. Come on everybody, let's pitch in and help the seniors.

Canyon High's band will enter the Region I contest in Class D, for all bands having one year, next weekend, Thursday night, April 28 thru Saturday, April 30. The class D division will be held Saturday, beginning at 8:30 a. m. in the college auditorium. Forty-four bands from over the Panhandle will battle for titles.

Competing against six other bands in class D, the group will play "Activity March," "Summer Evening Serenade" and "The Voyager Overture."

Immediately following the concert playing the band will enter the sight reading contest. Also, in the soloist division, Virginia Holt, flute; Ann Holt, alto saxophone; W. M. Thompson, French horn; Archie Phelps, trombone; Jo Ann Mickey, clarinet; and Sherma Dixon, baton twirling, will be entered.

The marching contests Friday and Saturday will have an admission charge for spectators, but the remainder of the contest has no charge. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Laura Davis Places Fifth In Region

Winners of the districts met in the Press Building at Texas Tech at 8:30 o'clock last Saturday morning for the regional meet. Contestants worked in five different shifts writing news stories, features, editorials, headlines and doing copy reading. Grades were averaged according to the classes of schools, "AA," "A" and "B." Points were averaged on grades of each event. The two representatives from Canyon are Fay Dickerson and Laura Davis. Laura Davis placed fifth on points, with a total of 95 points. Journalism students of Texas Tech judged the work.

Phone Answer Service Helps Get Jobs Done

NEW YORK.—The telephone shrilled in the brain specialist's empty office on a hot Sunday afternoon—and a swift chain of events began.

The surgeon was yachting off the swank Connecticut shore. But a few hours later, thanks to the bell, a girl and some seagoing police, he was performing a delicate emergency operation.

That was just another incident among hundreds which pack drama into the switchboards of telephone answering services. When the doctor did not answer his phone, an operator for the service to which he was a subscriber took the call and got the details about a severely injured accident victim. She had the police dispatch a patrol boat to bring him ashore.

Routs Out Agents

At other times answering-service operators have routed insurance agents out of bed at night to handle accidents. They have located mothers in movies when a crisis developed at home and have taken orders for thousands of dollars' worth of goods. One even produced bail for a client after he celebrated New Year's eve too well.

The telephone answering business is a 20th century plan. It sprouted more than 25 years ago and bloomed with the depression. Small business found the service cheaper than an office girl.

Today is a national industry with country-wide ramifications and big business clients. Telephone answering businesses in 80 large cities of the United States are linked in the Associated Telephone Exchange founded in 1942. Only one such business in a city may become a member.

From three to 80 members can work in the network to serve such big business clients as steel corporations, air lines, cable, radio and manufacturing companies, the American Red Cross and the Book of the Month club.

Saves Much Time

Fifteen members worked for several months for an air line company which was swamped with incoming telephone calls. Their daily reports caused the company to make shifts in personnel which eventually reduced the time elapsing between a ring in its offices and an answer, from 15 minutes to a few seconds.

The 80-city association sometimes has to handle personal problems too. One rich westerner (not a client) quarreled with his wife, came to New York, drank too much and became bent on suicide. But before he pulled the trigger he telephoned the wife of an old friend back home. She called her husband's telephone exchange. It called the New York member, who called the visitor's hotel manager, who raced to the room of the westerner, who was so furious at being interrupted that he forgot his intent and slept it off instead.

Stealing to Get Medicine Fails to Win Acquittal

NEW YORK.—If your wife suffered from a dread disease and you had to have money, would you steal?

Irving Himmelstein, 45, stood before Judge George J. Joyce and pleaded guilty Tuesday to stealing to get doctors and medicines for his wife, Sally, 38. Suffering from Burger's disease, with both legs amputated, she spends most of her time in a wheelchair.

"The man was driven to these burglaries," Himmelstein's attorney, Leon Fishbein, told the judge. "The family conditions are such that I could not take any fee from them."

Judge Joyce shifted uneasily. He looked at Himmelstein's record.

"I agree with you," the judge said sadly to the lawyer, "but under the law I must sentence him to the mandatory sentence of five to 10 years."

Sally Himmelstein, clutched by their two little daughters, watched the bailiffs lead her husband away toward Sing Sing prison.

Pet Terrier's Barking Saves Tot From Water

ELIZABETH, N. J.—Two-year-old Gene Stanchfield of 51 Fernwood Terrace was saved from drowning in a neighbor's fish pond when a pet terrier's barking brought the child's mother, Mrs. Doris Stanchfield, to the rescue.

The child, pulling a wagon and accompanied by the dog, wandered into the back yard at the home of Henry Lechaire, who lives next door at 55 Fernwood Terrace. Attracted by the ice-covered fish pond there, he walked to the edge and toppled in.

As the child splashed in the icy water the dog barked frantically. Mrs. Stanchfield rushed into the Lechaire's yard and found the child in 18 inches of water, his lips blue. The mother administered artificial respiration until the arrival of a physician, who treated the child for exposure and immersion.

Baptist Pastor Moves Into New Home

Pastor Roy L. Johnson and family have moved from their church apartment into the new parsonage of First Baptist Church 1717 Third Avenue, one block North of the church building.

The new building was constructed by Leonard Britt as general contractor, and plans were made by the pastor, the committee consisting of John L. Hammond, John H. Wright, W. H. Harden and Virgil Henson, and Bill Sternberg of the Sternberg Lumber Company. It provides four bed rooms, a private study accessible from the front entrance, an ample living room for such gatherings as are held in the pastor's home, an attractive dining room, and a modern kitchen and breakfast room. Storage space has been provided in a basement which also houses the hot water and heating system.

The committee and the congregation of the church will join the pastor in a special dedication service at the church on Sunday afternoon, May 8th, and "open house" will be observed to the many friends who desire to see the house that afternoon and at certain times during the week following.

Pentecostal Church Holding Revival

The evangelist has arrived and is preaching the old fashioned gospel at the Pentecostal Holiness Church each evening.

If you are interested in the future and want to hear about some of the things that are soon coming to pass as given in prophecy, Rev. L. H. Shepherd, from Larned, Kansas, is presenting these things each evening.

Everyone is invited to the services which begin at 8:00 o'clock.

"Clara, why don't you bring the young man home sometime? ... Me and yer maw would like to know what kind of folks he comes from."

Socialistic Trend In America Noted By Famed Writer

Writing in Nation's Business, Emerson P. Schmidt says: "In the November elections Norman Thomas and his Socialist party mustered a little more than 100,000 votes. ... Certainly this is not a very impressive showing. ... This record would seem to imply that socialism had little political future in the United States. Such an assumption would be premature."

Mr. Schmidt then lists ten developments which, in his opinion, have brought a strong tinge of socialism into the American government and our American life.

1. The Income Tax. This device is obviously a powerful leveller of income. Its logical end, Mr. Schmidt thinks, "is the final equalization of all incomes."

2. Social Security. We have some of it now. If current proposals are adopted, we will have it on an enormously costly, cradle-to-the-grave basis.

3. Federal Variable Grants-In-Aid. Normally, these grants are based in part on per capita income within a given state. The wealthier states thus pay for the poorer.

4. Food Allotment. A measure now in Congress would give stamps to low-income people with which they could obtain free food. Mr. Schmidt says: "Clearly, this opens far-reaching avenues for further redistribution of income and greater equalization."

5. Rent Control. Mr. Schmidt characterizes this as a "device for transferring income from people who supply housing to people who don't."

6. Public Housing. This is a very direct example of subsidizing one income group with money provided by a higher income group.

7. Driving Down the Interest Rate. That has been a basic feature of our fiscal policy for many years. The result is a vastly decreased income from savings, at the expense of those who have capital in either large or small amounts.

8. The Minimum Wage. The effect of this has been to raise the entire wage level. As Mr. Schmidt says, "Here is another way of passing money from group to group."

9. The Labor Movement. The recent trend has been to greatly increase labor's power, and to give it a larger slice of the total national income.

10. Estate and Inheritance Taxes. They take over when the income tax stops, and make another deep dig into accumulated savings.

Whether or not a person believes in the trend, Mr. Schmidt has made an impressive summing up of the extent to which we have moved toward the socialized "welfare" state.

COST OF LIVING DROPS
A new government appraisal of living costs showed a decline for the fifth straight month, although the price decline is expected to come to a halt in the near future. Statistical Commissioner Ewan Clague, of the Labor Department, says that the usual spring price rise will cause a leveling off of prices or start them upward again on a slight rise.

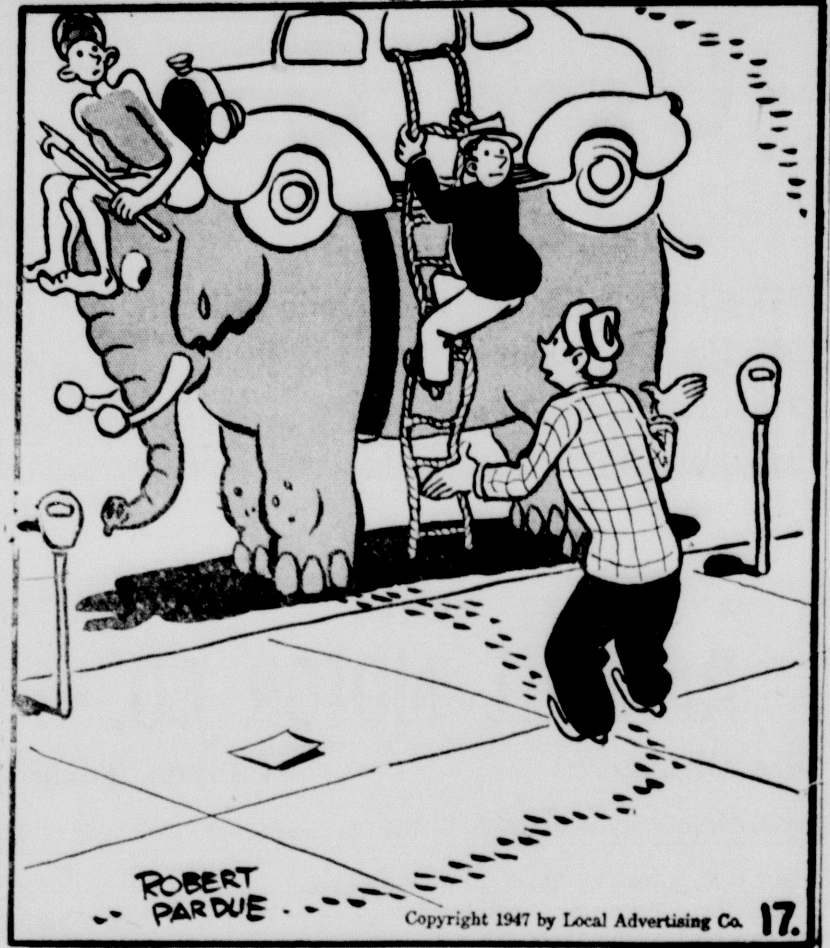

"STAMP-BOOK" SECURITY
Arthur J. Altmeyer, social security commissioner, has proposed a new "stamp-book" taxpaying system to help make possible a vast expansion of social security. The new system is designed principally for farm workers and household help who would be among the 20,000,000 new workers covered under old age insurance if Congress approves the expansion.

The studio in which the (Milton) Berle show originates has 290 seats. We have 10,000 ticket requests, which represent some 35,000 tickets. ... Simple mathematics will show that thousands of people just never will get tickets.—Don Stewart, Texas Co.

I think the question of obsolescence of television receivers is something of a tempest in a teapot. I do not think anyone buying a set has had a fraud perpetrated upon them.—Wayne Coy, chairman, Federal Communications Commission.

War Taxes Are Continued Long After War Stops

During the war, nearly eight years ago, a 15% tax was added to all train, bus and plane fares, principally to discourage civilian travel.

It was not the primary purpose of the tax to raise revenue. The original reason for imposing it has long since ceased to exist. Like all taxes, once they have been established, it is almost impossible to get rid of them.

Today this penalty on travel not only works a hardship on commercial carriers at a time when business is slowing up, but it is affecting vacation travel and all activities which benefit from tourist business. It is a burden on parents of students who are traveling to school; on people visiting relatives; on people who must travel because of illness, in the family, accidents and death; on individuals attending conferences and business meetings of various kinds, and on traveling for health and recreation.

The tax has been repealed on travel to foreign countries receiving Marshall Plan aid. Several weeks ago Canada, which imposed a similar 15% tax during the war, dropped it.

Reasons for repealing the penalty tax on personal travel apply with equal force to the three per cent tax on freight shipments. Such a tax is discriminatory to the common carriers by rail or highway because shippers who buy their own trucks and furnish their own transportation, escape it. It penalizes producers who must ship their products long distances to markets in competition with those situated closer to consumers.

It is high time the people begin to demand that wartime taxes and restrictions be eliminated in favor of peacetime policies that tend to encourage industry and payrolls. A good place to begin is to remove the wartime penalty tax on all such necessities as passenger and freight rates.

U. S. S. ROANOKE

The world's most powerful light cruiser, the U. S. S. Roanoke, has joined the United States fleet, being commissioned at the Philadelphia Naval Base. A sister ship of the U. S. S. Worcester, the Roanoke cost $30,000,000 and required four years to build. The ship is 680 feet long, has a beam of 70 feet, displaces 17,000 tons and has a designed speed of 33 knots. The new cruiser is the second ship in U. S. naval history to bear the name Roanoke. The first was a wooden screw steam frigate launched December 13, 1855.

ARMS PROGRAM

A survey by the National Resources Board and other key Government agencies found that the United States possesses enough resources, manpower and industrial capacity to undertake a $2,000,000,000 program to re-arm friendly countries of Europe without resorting to Government controls, such as rationing and allocations, and without causing any further inflation. The American weapons would go to the foreign nations participating in the North Atlantic Alliance, plus Greece, Turkey and Iran.

BUYING CUT

"Very conservative inventory and buying policies" were given by Government officials as the chief cause of a drop in business loans since the Christmas holidays. Officials said merchants not only have cut back buying for inventory, lest they get caught in a phase of declining prices, but also have been paying off old loans as fast as possible.

PAJAMAS

According to a nation-wide poll conducted by the Agriculture Department to aid the textile industry and raw fiber producers, only about half the men in the United States wear pajamas. Over 2,200 men in sample areas were polled, representing a cross-section of 55,000,000 men over 16.

Woman Finds Husband Gone For Two Years

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Elsie Lanning, 38, of Chicago, who spent two years and $5,000 searching for her husband, found him and said his whiskers scratched.

Mrs. Lanning, tall, sandy haired and well groomed, was reunited with Harry Lanning, 42, who married her 10 years ago. He disappeared on Valentine's day, 1947.

"I'm sorry. I don't know why I did it," he told her. "I left home with $30, but I've managed to save up $400."

Walked Out on Job

Lanning walked out on his job as a supervisor in a Chicago container factory. He was found washing dishes in a New York restaurant under the alias of Harry Manders. He was recognized by a fellow employee as the man pictured on one of the thousands of circulars sent out by Mrs. Lanning.

Lanning was tall and gaunt. His clothing was almost rags. His eyes were dark and his cheeks sunken. He wore no tie.

He was whisked by police into the room where his wife waited after she arrived by plane from Chicago. When she came out she said:

"He told me he was very sorry for what he had done. He said he loved me and gave me a very big kiss. I can still feel the kiss—his whiskers, you know. He is going back to Chicago with me."

"I knew I would find him," Mrs. Lanning said earlier Thursday. Police had given up a long time ago, but she continued.

Was Poster Plaster

"I plastered posters in restaurants, saloons and all kinds of gathering places all over the country," she said. "I just sent 30,000 circulars to New York last week. He was recognized from one of those. I was getting some more circulars ready when I was called Wednesday and was told that police had found him."

"I don't want to cause any embarrassment to my husband. He's always been shy and nervous. I think he has been ill."

Police had taken Lanning into custody on a technical charge of forgery growing out of his use of the name Manders to obtain a cabaret workers' license. The count was dismissed Thursday and as the couple walked arm in arm from the courtroom, the magistrate called after them:

"I hope you have good luck for the rest of your lives."

Worrying Found to Be Indicator of Normalcy

EVANSTON, ILL.—Don't fret about being worried, because if you didn't worry you'd really have something to worry about! That's the advice of a Northwestern university psychologist.

Said Associate Prof. Irwin A. Berg: "We think of worry and how unhappy we are, but have you ever thought that if we lacked such concern, houses probably would burn down because we failed to extinguish the gas or a smoldering cigarette butt, bills probably wouldn't be paid, and we wouldn't even ask for a raise in pay because we weren't worried about the cost of living? Many things that should get done would not be accomplished without constructive worry."

The core of Professor Berg's analysis of worry is that while it hinders us, when carried to extremes, it also helps us physically, mentally and socially. Sincere worry, not just fretting and stewing, assists a person in achieving purposeful activity, he believes.

"A better name for constructive worry is 'concern,'" explained Professor Berg. "It serves as a safety valve. It is a sort of protection, an insurance policy that certain things will be done."

Emphasizing that worry is a normal reaction which requires learning and experience to control, the psychologist said: "We learn to worry about other things and not about others. It's bad for a person not to worry at all—that is, to insulate himself from problems—as it is to worry so much that that's all he does."

Fingerprint of Lincoln Reported Found on Note

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The Illinois state historical library has what it believes is a fingerprint of Abraham Lincoln.

The print, made in ink, was found on a brief note written by Lincoln shortly before the end of the Civil War. The note was bought by the library from a New York autograph dealer.

Jay Monaghan, state historian, feels sure the print is that of Lincoln. But there is no way to check it, since no one has a Lincoln fingerprint known to be authentic.

The note was written in ink on a small piece of paper, about 2½ by 4 inches. It said:

"Let this man be discharged. A Lincoln, Feb. 17, 1865."

What the note referred to is not known, but Mr. Monaghan assumed that it had to do with granting of a pardon.

Man, 91, Cracks Nuts On Birthday, Plans Motorbike Programs

APPLETON, WIS.—(AP)—JOE Leppla was cracking hickory nuts on his 91st birthday, waiting for spring so he can renew his claim of being the world's oldest motorcycle rider.

The man who figures he's the granddaddy of the motorcycle doesn't usually put away his bike for the winter. He kept riding last year when the icy season set in. But Joe picked up a cold this winter—the first in 40 years, he says—so he decided to sit out the snow and cold for the first time.

Leppla retired from farming at the age of 60 and took to the motorcycle so he'd have something to do and so he could keep on getting plenty of fresh air. Since then he's worn out five bikes and has well over 100,000 miles on his sixth.

When he winds up, Joe usually heads for a fishing spot in this area, but he's taken many long jaunts out west.

Leppla might claim another title when he climbs aboard his cycle this spring. Those hickory nuts he's been cracking at the home of his daughter here aren't merely time passers. Joe says he has 85 pounds of nut meats so far and is on his way to becoming the champion hickory nut cracker of the world.

Bank Suspends Business After Three Robberies

VIRGIL, ILL.—The Virgil State bank, pillaged by hold-up men three times in the last few months, has decided to "call it quits."

Directors called a stockholders meeting to vote on proposed liquidation. The reason, directors said in a statement, is the "recent succession of robberies and the evident necessity of continued protection outlays."

Protection outlays have included a burglar-alarm system and an armed guard at the front door at all times. Customers must convince him before they can get in.

The bank was robbed of $4,090 October 20 by Spencer Peterson of near-by Little Rock and Joseph Hornyan of Aurora. It was taken for $2,000 November 13 by Peterson and Louis Rabenburg of Aurora. It was looted of $1,917 January 14 by Arthur Otowski and John Minister, both of Chicago.

Singer Outlines Technique For Bathroom Sinatras

BOSTON.—Do they laugh when you sit down in the bathtub to sing? "It shouldn't happen," singer Bobby Wayne says. "Anyone can sing. All he has to do is brush up on the three R's of music."

Just let the bathroom warblers know their own voices, he said, and it would eliminate the wifely complaints about squawking seals.

Wayne, who gets no complaints because he whispers lyrics, believes most of the shower and bathtub singers have good voices, but try to do the wrong things with them.

Some are the Sinatra type and try to sing opera. Others are crooners who try to yodel.

"It can't be done," he said as he recalled an effort by Lawrence Tibbett to sing the "Hut-Sut Song."

"The opera fans screamed. The bobby socks screamed, too. Tibbett is terrific at opera, but he got out of his vocal circle."

The three musical R's—resonance, range and rhythm—will put anyone in his proper niche, Wayne said, and tag him as a yodeler, balladier, crooner, light classical or opera singer.

"You can gauge your resonance by the ability to hold a note powerfully. The longer you can sustain it, the more like an opera singer you are. If you can't hold it long, you're more like a heart patting crooner."

4,500 People to Share In Two-Million Dollars

NEW YORK.—A New York company has announced it has been hired to look for 4,500 persons to whom two recently organized Chicago companies want to give $2,298,038.

The pleasing part about the whole thing for the missing 4,500 is that they're found—is that they don't know they have the money coming.

The potentially lucky 4,500 are missing stockholders in the Midland Utilities co. and the Midland United co., both of Chicago. The company hired to find the stockholders is the Tracers Company of America, in New York.

The last known addresses of the missing persons are scattered in Alaska, Hawaii, 15 foreign nations and in 500 cities, towns and villages of America, including Paw Paw and Midland, Mich., Nectarine, Pa., and Broken Bow, Ohio.

Under a court order last year in the proceedings for reorganization of the Chicago companies, the court decreed that stockholders entitled to participate in the exchange of securities under the plan of reorganization must surrender their old securities before June 30, 1953.

Otherwise they lose their rights to any securities or cash held for them.

Important principles may and must be flexible.—Abraham Lincoln.

Warlords' Widows Wander Aimlessly Throughout Europe

LONDON.—The widows, mistresses and daughters of Europe's top war criminals wander aimlessly today through the countries where once they were queens.

Most of them have nothing left but their infamous names.

A United Press survey of the continent showed that most of yesterday's fascist "royalty" have lost their homes, jewels, furs and servants they once enjoyed. Nor has time been kind to their charms and beauty.

A notable exception is Edda Ciano daughter of slain dictator Benito Mussolini and widow of executed Count Galeazzo Ciano.

The resourceful Edda, who made band's memoirs, still lives in her accustomed high style, travels widely within Italy, and has many wealthy friends.

Mrs. Pierre Laval, widow of the French collaborationist, is also well fixed financially. But she is ridden by hate for the France that ordered a firing squad to "murder" her husband, and obsessed by the dream that she may someday clear his name of the stain of war guilt.

She lives surrounded by pictures of her husband, whether at home in her chateau at Chateldon or in the Paris apartment of her wealthy daughter-in-law, Countess Jose de Chambrun.

Kansan Elected Constable Through 'Joke' of Friend

KANSAS CITY, KAN.—Harry O. Tinklepaugh made probably the shortest "acceptance" speech on record.

Tinklepaugh went to vote. Renz Edwards, long-time friend, told him he promised to vote for him for constable.

Tinklepaugh said: "fine." Edwards did some quick campaigning. He lined up four votes for his friend. Tinklepaugh thought no more of the "joke."

When the counting board finished its work, it certified Tinklepaugh as constable on the basis of those four write-in votes.

There were no candidates on the ticket for the no-fee-no-office job. So there were 61 write-ins. And Tinklepaugh's four votes topped the field.

For the surprised Tinklepaugh, there was some satisfaction.

"Now I can put a red light and siren on my car," he grinned.

Average Man Works Less, Gets More Wages for It

LONDON.—A boilermaker in Kansas City smacks home a half-dozen rivets in two minutes. It earns him a loaf of bread.

The black-haired little Italian who comes around to mend the furnace in a Rome apartment works nearly half an hour for his loaf. In London, where government subsidies pay a large part of bread cost, the boilermaker has to work twice as long for a loaf as his Kansas City counterpart.

The average American works fewer hours and gets a whale of a lot more for his labor than most of the people he's helping in Europe.

To find the facts about the cost of living in the western world, research workers in 21 major cities, including Washington and Kansas City, investigated living conditions of typical families.

For comparative purposes, each selected a bookkeeper, a ditchdigger and a boilermaker, all married and the fathers of two children. The cost of living was translated into minutes and hours of work needed to obtain life's necessities.

The researchers found that earning power in terms of groceries approaches United States standards in Oslo, Copenhagen and Stockholm—but other ordinary items, especially clothes, are considerably higher.

27 People Required To Wake Sleeping Boy

BROOKLYN.—It took 27 persons, including 10 policemen, to waken 12-year-old Louis Gossman by taking turns banging on his bedroom door at 1370 42nd street, Brooklyn. The siege of the modern Rip Van Winkle began at 7:15 a.m. and ended nearly an hour later.

At 6 a.m. his mother, Mrs. Gusie Grossman served breakfast to her husband, William, 50, a soft drink dealer, and their elder son, Lawrence, 19. With the pair packed off to work, she caught a little more sleep and got up at 7. Then she called to Louis to get up for school. He mumbled something and she went out, did a little shopping, came back and found Louis' door locked and unopenable.

She knocked. No answer. She banged on the door. She screamed. No answer. Neighbors began to come in. They too yelled and knocked. At length seventeen women were getting hysterical when two radio cars and a police emergency squad, mustering 10 policemen, arrived.

They were about to break the door when Louis opened it. He was well, but yawning.

Still More Peary Tin Cans To Be Found at North Pole

Peary records recently found in a rock mound on Cape Sheridan by members of a U. S. navy-coast guard task force are not the first to come to light of those cached by the explorer in the course of his 1905-06 Arctic expedition. Nor are they the last to await discovery, says the National Geographic society.

On Cape Thomas Hubbard at the northern tip of Axel Heiberg island, some 400 hard-hiking miles southwest of Cape Sheridan, Peary planted a tin can containing a small piece of the American flag and a paper bearing his name and the date—June 28, 1906. There it was found eight years later by Donald B. MacMillan.

In mid-June, 1906, Commander Peary had placed records in a cairn at Cape Columbia, Ellesmere island, northernmost land of North America. The preceding April 21, he had built a cache for his records on the polar ice at 87 degrees, 6 minutes north latitude, farthest north attained by man to that time. While exploring Greenland's Arctic coast six years earlier, he had built a cairn on Cape Morris Jesup, northernmost known land.

Cape Sheridan, at the northeast corner of Ellesmere island, is west across Robeson channel from the Greenland coast. It marked the northern limit attained in September, 1905, and again in September, 1908, by Peary's Maine-built ship, the Roosevelt, the first vessel built in the United States especially for Arctic work.

Home Relations Specialist Tells How to Develop Tact

There are some "golden rules" to follow that will help anyone develop tactful ways, says Miss Marguerite Briggs.

Miss Briggs, who is family relations specialist at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, offers these hints:

Look for the best points in each person whether it's a family member or friend. Janey is good about taking care of the younger children. Dad is mighty handy at making bookends, etc. Compliment people on their special assets.

When praise is earned, give it freely. Even if it's just that Billy made his bed extra-well this morning, remember to tell him so at dinner time.

Study people — your family and friends — so that you will know when they feel displeased about what is being said or done. Then try to steer away from that topic. Or, if it's a situation that has to be faced, try to handle it a little differently next time.

Respect the way others feel and think about certain questions—politics, religion—even though their opinions may be different from yours. Within reason, everyone has a right to his own opinion.

Take a little more time to think a problem through before you make a decision or give a command. How is the other person going to take it?

And hard as it may seem, admit your mistakes and ask forgiveness. Then forget the whole incident.

Some Philadelphia 'Firsts'

The first paper mill, the mill of William Rittenhouse, was established in Philadelphia in 1690 and the first water mark came out of that mill. The first book entered for copyright in this country, 1790, was called, The Philadelphia Spelling Book. Printing was first manufactured in this country in Philadelphia in 1804, by Charles E. Johnson, and it is a firm which is still in existence. The printing of the first perforated postage stamp was done in Philadelphia in 1857. The first printing press invented in this country, the Columbian press, was invented by a Philadelphian. And the first auto-gyro mail delivery, direct to the post office, was made here in Philadelphia on May 25, 1935.

Use of Clay Tile

Clay tile, widely used today in bathrooms and kitchens, has long played an important architectural role in many parts of the world. About 3,000 years before the birth of Christ, it was employed to line chambers in one of the earliest of the Egyptian pyramids. In the Near East, tile decoration evolved into a great art, and many of the finest mosques were embellished with it. During the 16th century in Spain, tile was so widely used in homes that the expression "to have a house without tiles" became a figure of speech expressing poverty. In Holland, the Dutch first began extensive use of clay tile in the 17th century and have since employed it in homes not only for kitchens but also for dairies, cellars, and even living rooms.

Isotopes and Atoms

Isotopes are atoms that are literally "of the same rank" as the atoms of their respective elements. For example, an atom of the element copper and a copper isotope are exactly alike in their chemical behavior; the only difference lies in their atomic weight. Radioactive isotopes have the additional distinction of emitting radiations that can be detected by suitable instruments or by their action on photographic plates.

FACT FABLE

Once upon a time there was a man who did a lot of foolish things. In fact, he made so many stupid mistakes he became known as the "Town Fool." One day two of the more solid citizens met and one said, "Did you hear the latest stunt so-and-so pulled?"

The other man replied, "Yes, but he's not as big a fool as he used to be—he was sick last month and lost 30 pounds!"

Moral: Many words have a double meaning.

WHEAT REFERENDUM

The Government is preparing for a probable nation-wide farmer referendum in the near future on the question of putting wheat under production controls. If approved, the controls would apply to the 1950 crop and would probably require a cut of as much as 25 per cent in acreage. Secretary of Agriculture Charles A. Brannan is expected to wait until sometime in June before deciding definitely on calling the referendum.

UNIFICATION SAVINGS

An estimated $56,517,421 has been saved by the unification of the armed services, through reduction of overlapping and duplication, according to Defense officials. A clothing allowance plan has resulted in an $8,000,000 savings. Unification in training, such as photography, chemical warfare, phases of air navigation and use of same texts and schools has saved more than $2,000,000. Warehouses, commissaries, post offices and repair shops will be used in common by the services wherever possible.

When apartment hotels were decontrolled in Kansas City their rents did not go up 15% as some claim will happen with removal. They increased 100 to 150%.—Mayor William E. Kemp, Kansas City, Mo.

New Yorkers 'Share 'Gawks' With Visitors

NEW YORK.—You can tell the tourists here by the way they look up, a bit self-consciously, at the towering buildings. You can tell the natives by the way they look into shop windows.

If you haven't been in New York recently, the latter statement may require a bit of explanation. Two characteristics mark the typical New Yorker: His affinity for crowds and a certain peculiar nervous curiosity about everything.

Combined, these traits make the Gothamite the world's most enthusiastic gazer into store windows. It matters little what is in the window. No display of neckties or girdles is too commonplace to attract a little knot of loyal lookers. And if, as is sometimes the case, there is something going on behind the plate glass, it's as good as a Katherine Cornell opening night.

A chef's helper standing in the window of Toffenetti's restaurant at Times square peeling potatoes or cleaning oysters often attracts a crowd of a hundred or more. A television receiver tuned into a program of cooking advice will draw half a hundred males who look incapable of so much as boiling an egg.

Watch Store Windows

The New Yorker does not pause to watch the blinkings of the complex electric signs around Times square. Nor does he stop to look at the big city's biggest show — the faces and dress of the polyglot crowd hurrying by. But let a storekeeper step into a display window and move a dress model from front to back and the New Yorker stops transfixed, gazing at the phenomenon in dumb wonder.

The reporter decided to experiment with this strange Manhattan habit. Walking along W. 43rd st., he stopped and looked casually at an unusually dull collection of pipes in a tobacconist's window. Immediately, half a dozen passers-by joined him, standing there mutely gazing at the $1.98 specials.

Leaving this little knot behind, the reporter strolled along until he came to another window which no one was watching at the moment. He stopped and looked in. As though it sprang from the sidewalk a crowd was with him on the instant. Together they looked solemnly at the three dead fish which the restaurant had placed in the window to lure patrons.

Always The Same

The reporter tried it again and again. Each time he had no sooner stopped than from three to a dozen of the passers-by joined him. It mattered not whether the window display was a sad, red-skinned lobster or a collection of $5.98 lingerie, a dozen strings of salami or a window full of bottled hair oil. The reaction was the same.

One of the most loyal followings in town is that of the little show put on by a notions shop in a corner of the Times square subway station. Three of the shop's employees apparently spend all of their time standing just inside the open doorway winding up children's mechanical toys. At 3 p.m. or 3 a.m., there is a crowd ranging from a dozen to 50 city dwellers standing silently watching the tin cats and toy men doing their simple tricks.

Retired Policeman Makes Things Tough for Crooks

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y.—Melvin H. Rauch still is making things tough for the crook even though he has retired from the Mount Vernon police department.

Rauch, 48, is not toting a gun or a night stick any longer. His new role in the battle against crime is that of an inventor.

His invention is a simple, inexpensive metal device that looks something like a slide rule. With it, almost any door can be locked from the inside and no key in the world will open the door from the outside.

The invention is aimed at those thieves who use skeleton keys, or pass keys, to open doors in hotels, apartments and private homes. The device also guards against a lock being picked.

It operates simply. One hooked end of the device is placed in the strike plate, or jam. The door is then closed and most of the device, which is a thin strip of metal, extends on the inside of the door.

A latch then is slid into tight position against the door. Pronto, the door is locked so that no key can open it. The latch is slid backward when a person desires to remove the device and open the door.

Rauch said the idea of the invention came to him during one of his many investigations of robberies by thieves who had used skeleton keys to enter a home.

His invention is protected by patent and a large manufacturer now is putting the device into production.

The device weighs only a few ounces and is no larger than a tooth brush. It can be carried in a man's pocket or in a woman's handbag. Rauch says his invention should prove especially helpful to those who travel.

It's official name will be the "fool thief."

Even the Fair Deal, in death, was entitled to burial with civil rights.

ACREAGE REDUCTIONS

Farmers are preparing to plant less acreage to crops for harvest this year, as prospective prices do not offer sufficient incentive to encourage the necessary overtime to produce extra supplies. The Department of Agriculture predicts a 1949 crop acreage of about 361,000,000, or about 1,600,000 less than was planted last year. A considerable reduction in the feed grain acreage was indicated, with corn planting likely to be the smallest in more than 50 years.

I have to be careful of what I say and what I do. They all feel they have to watch over me like a father. —Mary Shadow, 22, lone woman member, Tennessee legislature.

THE U. S. O.

President Truman has announced the reactivation of the United Service Organizations in view of conditions "which make it necessary for us to have a large peacetime military establishment." It will operate this year in the United States, Alaska and Guam.

Propaganda for an earthly life without God is open, seductive, continuous. Often God is not denied. . . . He is not cursed. . . . He is as though absent.—Pope Pius XII.

S. E. Anderson, General, U. S. Air Force: "The B-36 can strike all but two significant military targets on earth from bases in the Western Hemisphere."

It is futile to talk of planning until we have determined how to achieve a decision in the peacemaking.—Bernard Baruch.
